The Logo Standards Manual v1.1

Coghlan's Ltd. is the leader in Outdoor Camping Accessories providing quality products that are unsurpassed in the industry. With this comes the commitment to betterment and change throughout the outdoor market. As our program strengthens, the identity of Coghlan's must remain true to its roots in every way. To do this we maintain a consistent, high quality in our publications, printed materials and website. Adherence to the logo standards established by Coghlan's is an important step in this process. This logo standards Manual was created to make proper logo use easier in the broad array of printed and online materials that represent Coghlan's. The following guidelines are intended to provide maximum design flexibility while at the same time maintaining the consistency of Coghlan's identity.

Reproduction Specifications

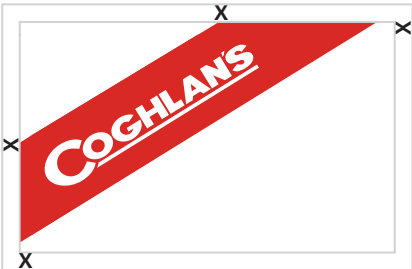

All logos must be used in their entirety as a unit: it is not acceptable to extract any elements. To avoid confusion, only official Coghlan's logos should be referred to as a "logo". Other graphic identity symbols used in conjunction with the Coghlan's logos should be called "symbols" or "marks". The Coghlan's logos should not be used without permission by groups or organizations not formally affiliated with the Coghlan's company. Requests for such usage should be referred to Coghlan's Department of Marketing. The logo should never be redrawn or recreated in any way.

Smallest Logo Size Allowed for Reproduction

All logos must never be sized smaller than 1" diagonally.

Logo Positioning

The minimum clear space surrounding the logo's must always be at least .25" on a 5" width logo, scaled proportionately (the same aspect ratio) when the logo dimensions go up or down. This clear space must be allowed on all sides of the logo.

Unacceptable Uses of the Logos

Please use the Coghlan's logo with the red banner in corner page applications ONLY. For all other applications please use the standard Coghlan's logo (typeface).

All logos must never be rotated from original baseline. Logos cannot be placed with white background over color background or be inverted in color.
